Richmond, William + Timothy Terrill: Colonial Virginions

HISTORICAL SKETCH

De Tirel seems to be the way the name started out from the town of Tirel, in France. The founder of the English and Irish Terrell families was Sir Walter de Tirel who went to England with William, the Conqueror. The titles of Sir Walter are quite overwhelming as published by different branches of the family, in pamphlets which are on file in the Heralds College, London.

The "Genealogy of Richmond and William Terrell" by Joseph Henry Terrell, of England, gives the descent of the Terrells in England and America from Edward I and Eleanor of Castile, and therefore, from the Saxon Kings, the Kings of France and Spain, the Dukes of Normandy, the Counts of Flanders, etc.

That history can be found in most of the genealogical libraries. Only as much as is necessary to give a historical background for American descendants is used in this compilation.

Humphrey Terrell married Jane Ingleton, of Thornton, heiress of the Ingletons of that place, in 1519. Doomsday Book states that "he seated himself at Thornton and was the ancestor of the Tyrrells of Oakley in this County and the Tyrrels of Castlethorpe." He also held the Manor of Bruyn and 500 acres. He died in 1548.

George Tyrrell, son of Humphrey and Jane Ingleton, married Eleanor, daughter of Sir Edward Montague, of Broughton. He held the Manors of Bruyn and Fobbing, in Essex. He died May 16, 1571.

William, son of George and Eleanor Montague, married Margaret (?), daughter of William Richmond, alias Webb, of Stewkley Grange, Bucks., and his second wife, Marjory, daughter of John Choke, Esq., of Shelborne, Wiltshire. William Tyrrell settled at Reading, not many miles from Thornton.

Robert, son of William and Margaret (?) Richmond Tyrrell, married June 29, 1617, to Jane, daughter of Robert and Joan Pigeon Baldwin, at St. Giles Church, Reading.

Robert and Joan Pigeon were married October 5, 1590, at St. Mary's, Reading.

TERRELL

From "TERRELL GENEALOGY" by Mildred Terrell Thiele & Exeen Thiele Morgan.

PREFACE

"....My tattered and torn copy of Edwin Holland Terrell's pamphlet had to be preserved for future generations,,,,, We are lucky to have had our lineage preserved for us over such a long period o of time. However the name is spelled - Terrell, Terrill, or Tyrell - we are of the same line of descent and have every right to be proud of it.

The Terrells were of an adventurous nature as shown by their travels through several countries of Europe, to Virginia, Georgia, and Texas. They left their imprints wherever they were as they moved constantly westward. May the generations yet unborn continue to carry t the torch and appreciate the heritage left them by these pioneers.

DESCENT OF TERRELL FAMILY

Below is set forth the direct and unbroken line of the descent of the Terrell family from its earliest ancestors as taken from a Terrell skeleton tree by Mrs. Jane Henderson Duke with additions in 1962 by Mildred Terrell Thiele (Mrs. Joseph E.) and Exeen Thiele Margan (Mrs. Jack G.)

HERALDRY

Heraldry is defined as the art of science of blazoning or describing in appropriate technical terms coats of arms and other herald heraldic and armorial insignia. The system is of tribes, and subsequent quently we vind it in a more elaborate form in the leading families of Greece and Rome, who bore distinguishing symbols, illustrative of, or pertaining to, deeds of valor or merit performed by their ancestors.

In its modern sense, however, the heraldic art dates from the time of the Crusades, and was reduced to its present perfect system by the French; and it was not until that period that the crest or cognizance was generally adopted. The crest is a device worn on top of th of the shield usually placed on a wreath, and was borne by knights and other personages of rank, when clad in armor, to distinguish them in battle, and as a mark for their followers and supporters. At first these badges were worn on the helmet, to render them more plainly visible, or on the arm, but in later times were transferred to the shield of armor. Many families have preserved their mottoes, or watchwords, which usually represent some characteristic of the family, or sometimes the war cry of the clan. Others never adopted a motto, just as many never adopted a crest.

An erroneous idea is entertained by some that heraldic symbols denote as artistocratic or exclusive class and is undemocratic in its origin and permanency. On the contrary, these badges of distinction were the rewar were the reward of personal merit, and could be secured by the humblest as well as the highest. They are today the testimonials

"THE ANCIENT HOUSE OF THE TERRELLS CAME FROM NORMANDY, AND WAS AN ISSUE OF THE FIRST DUKES OF NORMANDY, AND VERY OLD AND DISTINGUISHED." From the book of M. Cuvillier-Morel-D'Acy, a distinguished Archivist and Genealogist of France.

In Burke's Baronetcies, the French book noted above, and other records found in the British Museum, the name is variously spelled; and sometimes the name of the son is spelled differently from the name of the father. It is spelled: TYRRELL, TYRREL, TYREL, TERRELL, TERRILL, TIRRELL, etc. In all these authorities, however, the statement is made that it is the same name, and in England, the name is universally pronounced, no matter how spelled, as though it were spelled TYRRELL. (Note—To avoid confusion the writer has used the uniform spelling of the name as "TERRELL" throughout these notes.)

(1) SIR WALTER TERRELL, I., the first member of the family of TERRELL de POIX, and the close kinsman of ROBERT, Duke of Normandy, a cousin. The first Sir Walter was a native of Normandy, and the trunk or stem of his House. Born 1030. His descendents in England are represented by the well known County family of Tyrrell, Tyrel, Terrell, Terrill, established in Essex County by his descendent, HUGH TERRELL, who went from Picardy to Essex County in the Year 1199 or 1200 and established himself upon the lands granted to Sir Walter Terrell, by William the Conqueror after the conquest of England. From this old Essex County family are descended the different branches of the family in England today, and the several branches of the American family of Tyrrell, Terrell, and Terrill.

Sir Walter Terrell I. is represented now in France in descent by two principal branches: First, the MOYENCOURT family, and second, the Mouchy de Poix family.

The line of Terrell de Poix figured prominently in the Crusades, held high positions of the Court of the Kings of France in early days, and filled many distinguished posts in the military and civil history of the north of France.

Sir Walter Terrell I. accompanied William the Conqueror to the conquest of England. Being a close kinsman, or cousin, as the book calls it, of William, Duke of Normandy, he had the honor of leading the center column in the first assault on the English lines. With his well trained band of retainers, from Poix (Pohiers) he made the assault on the English center at the great battle of Hastings, October 14, 1066. His name is in the list of distinguished noblemen who fought in the battle of Hastings. Sir Walter Terrell I. married twice: First, Olga, and second, Alix, the only daughter of Lord Frementiers. He had two children by the last marriage: Sir Walter Tyrrell II. and Osmont. Sir Walter I. died in 1068, and was succeeded in his titles and possessions by Sir Walter II.

16569 (2) SIR WALTER TERRELL II., is the member of the family, who, it is said, accidently killed King William Rufus of England, while hunting with him in New Forest.

Sir Walter Terrell II., married, by order of William the Conqueror, his cousin, King of England, Adelice Giffard, who was of the illustrious House of Giffard in Normandy and England and niece of the Earl of Buckingham.

Sir Walter Terrell II. died in 1110, and left as children of himself and Adelice, his Wife, three sons: Walter III., Baldwin, who accompanied his father to the Crusades, and Robert, Seignour d eBergicourt, who was killed in 1133 in the Holy Land, while on one of the Crusades.

15868 (3) SIR WALTER TERRELL III. bore all the titles of his father and grandfather: Lord of Poix, Vicomte de Equennes, Baron de Ribecourt, etc. He was a rich and powerful nobleman, owning vast possessions in Normandy, Picardy and Pontiers. Sir Walter Terrell III. was married three times, first, Isabelle de Heilly, who died in 1120; second, Adeline de Ribecourt, who died in 1128, and third, Fide de Selincourt.

There were born three children from the first two marriages: Hughes (Hugh), Terrell I.. Foulques and Baudoin (Baldwin).

Baldwin had four sons, who, in 1190, accompanied their cousin, Hugh Terrell II., the great soldier, to the Crusades, where two of them perished at the siege of Acre. Sir Walter Terrell III. died in 1145.

16563 (4) SIR HUGH TERRELL I., Lord of Poix, son of Walter III., inherited the lands and titles of his father, and qualified as Prince de Poix in 1153. Sir Hugh achieved great fame as a soldier in one of the Crusades.

Hugh I. married Ade de Aumale, daughter of Count de Aumale. Their children were Walter IV., who died in 1171 without children, and Hugh Terrell II. Sir Hugh I. died in 1159.

15866 (5) SIR HUGH TERRELL II. was also a famous soldier, and distinguished himself in the Crusades. In the Hall of the Crusades at Versailles, in folio 24, number 125, is an article on Hugh Terrell II., Lord de Poix. His Coat of Arms is in the third Hall of the Crusades. Hugh Terrell II. died in 1199. He had married, first, in 1161 Isabelle de Wignacourt of the illustrious family in Picardy, and second, in 1173 Marie de Senarpoint, also of distinguished blood.

He left two children, Gaulthier (Walter) V., and Hughes (Hugh) Terrell. The older son, Walter, inherited, as usual under the law of primogeniture, all the titles and possessions in France of his father. This line in France, after producing many distinguished men, finally died out in 1417, the titles and possessions passing to the female side. the family of Moyencourt, where the titles continue to this day.

At this point, we may mention that none of the Terrell line up to this time had settled in England. As stated before, Sir Walter Terrell I., who distinguished himself at the battle of Hastings in 1066, under William the Conqueror, received a large grant of land in Essex County, England. He and his descendents, up to the year 1199 or 1200, remained in Picardy, on the vast family estates, where they held titles as Prince de Poix, etc.

16824 (6) HUGH TERRELL, second son of Hugh Terrell II., and brother of Sir Walter V. (the one who carried on the line in France), it was, who in the year 1199 or 1200 crossed over into England and established himself on the lands of the family in Essex County, and formed a branch of the Norman and Picardian family, from which there exist today in England and the United States of America, different groups of his descendents From Hugh, was descended Sir James Terrell, English historian, born 1642, died 1718. One owes to him the thorough and scholarly researches into the history of the House of Tyrrell of Poix.

In a pamphlet published by Mr. Peter G. Laurie. called the Terrells of Heron, in the Parish of East Horndon, is an interesting account of the old County family of the Terrells, which was settled in Essex County for more than five hundred years.

These were the descendents of Hugh Terrell, the first ancestor in England. Their manor house, locate dnear East Horndon, was occupied by the family during all this time.

The name of Heron attached to the family name of Terrell through the marriage, early in the 14th century, of Sir James Terrell to Margaret, daughter of Sir William Heron, Knight of Heron.

13011– (17) Sir Edward Terrell of Thornton, son of George Terrell. First wife, Mary, daughter of Benedict Lee. Second wife, Margaret, daughter of Thomas Ashton of Ashton, Cheshire.

13019– (18) Sir Timothy Terrell of Oakley in Bucks. Son of Sir Edward Terrell of Thornton and wife, Mary Lee. Born about year 1590. First wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Edward Watson. Second wife, Eleanor, daughter of Sir William Kingsmill, Knight, of Sidmanton in Hampshire.

Sir Timothy had the following issue: Robert, son of Sir Timothy and wife, Elizabeth Watson. Children of Sir Timothy and Eleanor Kingsmill: Sir Timothy Terrell II., his heir, (Robert was disinherited); William, who was killed in the civil wars at Chester in 1644. Henry and Charles who died unmarried in Ireland. The alumni registers of the University of Oxford, show that both Sir Timothy Terrell I. and Sir Timothy II. were graduates of that university.

12932 ? 18636 (19) Robert Terrell, eldest son of Sir Timothy Terrell and wife, Elizabeth Watson, was disinherited by Sir Timothy because Robert would not adhere to the strict religious orthodoxy prevailing in England at this time.

Robert located at Reading, was councilor of Reading Borough, Guardian 1616. St. Giles Ward, 1619. Married Jane, daughter of Robert Baldwin, June 29, 1617. Son, Timothy.

12947 ? (20) Timothy Terrell of Allhallows, Broad Street, London, son of Robert Terrell and wife, Jane Baldwin. Married Dorothy Collard and had three sons: Avery, born 1647; William, born 1650, and died in 1651; and TIMOTHY, born 1656, christened Dec. 5th 1656, at Allhallows, London, after his father died a young man, Aug. 20th, 1656. Chapter II

THE TERRELLS

The Terrell name is an old English name. It was originally spelled Tyrell, and one of the early Tyrells was knighted in the Crusade Wars under Richard Cour de Leon. At an early date from tradition one of the Tyrells accidentally killed a tyrannical king of England, thinking he was a deer while the King was walking in the park. The name getting in some disrepute, was changed to Terrell or Terrill and it is now spelled in both ways by their descendants in this country.

Robert # 12932

In the sixteenth century three Terrell brothers came from England to America and settled in Virginia. When they left England for America, the land of opportunity and freedom, they received their father's blessings and he gave to one a pair of silver shoe buckles, to another a pair of knee buckles, and to the third a pair of silver suspender buckles with the solemn admonition that at each of their deaths, these heirlooms should in turn be handed down from one generation to another through the oldest son.

My father, Samuel Lafayette Terrell, inherited the pair of silver suspender buckles and they at the death of our father, passed on down to his oldest son, Lafayette Phillomen Terrell, and from him down to his oldest son, John Hale Terrell, who passed away at Wichita Falls, Texas in 1938, and they yet remain in the hands of his wife, he not having any male heir to inherit them. These old treasured relics should be turned over to some of the male Terrells or should be placed for safekeeping in a Texas museum or some other safe place for such valuable old family treasures. They are of no intrinsic value but to one who has pride in his ancestors, they should be of great value.

My grandfather, Lafayette Phillomen Terrell, moved from Virginia to Georgia at an early day and raised his family there, and probably from that family Robert Terrell was both Governor and United States Senator from that state when he passed away. Later on my grandfather moved with his family to Alabama and then to Mississippi where my father was born and reared.

The father of Samuel Lafayette Terrell was Phillomen Terrell and he married Margaret Ratcliff and lived in Adams County, Mississippi, and moved to Louisiana.
